There seems to be a regular supply of Acoustic Solutions separates like the SP150 or SP151 on these - or even full systems for sale, at prices ranging from almost next-to-nothing upwards towards financial foolishness. I have seen the odd A.S. separate for sale in those Charity Shops that still sell electricals.

Well, I guess I'm able to do a direct comparison between the Acoustic Solutions 160Gb machine and the Liteon 160Gb unit. Last week I bought the AS unit from Argos, set it all up and away I went. Everything was great, loved the live pause/rewind feature and timer recording was easy to setup and reliable.

Acoustic Solutions are known for better quality Hi-Fi and amplifiers, here the all important chip is provided by 3GA. In fact 3GA and an annual event held in Cambridge for new innovations is the whole reason I knew about it. Two weeks ago a cold day in November saw me on a train to Cambridge at some horribly early hour.

Thanks for the suggestion. The instruction book didn't mention anything about it & I have since heard back from Target (I didn't realise it's their 'own brand' mp3) and they said it didn't have that facility & suggested that most others didn't either - yet various friends with other brand mp3 players are able to 'pause' & come back.
