Do not ignore a flashing check engine light. It is usually an indication of engine misfire, and excessive fuel getting into the catalytic converter as a result. This could damage the cat at some point pretty quickly if left unchecked. You likely have leaking coil boots - leaking spark. Plugs and boots will likely fix your problem.

the check engine light comes on flashes for about 15 ...

Hi, I'm hoping to get some advice on an intermittently blinking check engine light in a 2003(?) Ford Escape. I received a call from my fiance, who's about 45 minutes into a two hour drive. On the interstate, her check engine light started blinking, so she pulls off the interstate to a gas station (the light was blinking for maybe five minutes before she could stop, according to her). After ...

2005 Escape: check engine light..started flashing..it ...

Engine Light: One of the most sensitive lights on a Ford, the check engine light has two warning levels. For less serious issues (assuming the vehicle is operating normally), the light will stay on but remain steady. If the light blinks, however, there is a major issue. Do not drive the vehicle. Have it towed to the nearest repair facility.
