Microeconomics (from Greek prefix mikro-meaning "small" + economics) is a branch of economics that studies the behaviour of individuals and firms in making decisions regarding the allocation of scarce resources and the interactions among these individuals and firms.. One goal of microeconomics is to analyze the market mechanisms that establish relative prices among goods and services and ...

Covering micro as well as macro economics, some of IBSCDC's case studies require a prior understanding of certain economic concepts, while many case studies can be used to derive the underlying economic concepts. Topics like Demand and Supply Analysis, Market Structures (Perfect Competition, Monopoly, Monopolistic, etc.), Cost Structures, etc., in micro economics and national income accounting ...

The case studies aim to provide an applied contemporary vehicle to engage economic students in an area of familiarity. All too often microeconomics is perceived as being essentially a theoretical tool in which models and accompanying diagrams are memorised with little understanding of their significance in policy application.
