Don Thompson's "The $12 Million Stuffed Shark: The Curious Economics of Contemporary Art" is an interesting compilation of many different facets of the Contemporary Art market. The book is written around a central thesis—that branding is responsible for the popularity and prices of contemporary art. Thompson begins the book by focusing on Damien Hirst's sculpture of a shark,

In The $12 Million Stuffed Shark : The Curious Economics of Contemporary Art (Doubleday Canada, 2008), Don Thompson argues that many of the reputations of contemporary artists rest on the particular modes of transacting business within the artworld, the relationships between artists, dealers, auction houses, collectors, and super-rich dabblers who want to be collectors or even sometimes investors in art.

~~The $12 Million Stuffed Shark on Apple Books~~

The $12 Million Stuffed Shark explores money, lust, and the self-aggrandizement of possession in an attempt to determine what makes a particular work of art valuable while others are ignored. In the style of the bestselling Freakonomics , Thompson uses economic concepts to explain the unique practices employed, to great success, in the international contemporary art market.
