The coefficient attached to having "Non-Italian citizenship" has a negative sign and is statistically significant, implying lower probabilities of psychotropic drug prescription for these individuals. This result supports evidence that non-Italian citizens living in Italy are in a better mental health status than Italian people (ISTAT, 2005). Another explanation for this result is that non-Italian workers may have less access to health care, due for example to the lack of information on ...

Italy was found to have violated Article 3 of the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR). The case was a landmark because it established the applicability of the ECHR on the high seas, outside the immediate state's territorial jurisdiction. It established that states cannot push people back towards a country where they may be subjected to inhuman and degrading treatment.
